Unlike Photoshop, the desktop version of Elements does not have a darkroom, but it has a selection feature called Magic Wand that is the equivalent to the Magic Wand tool in Photoshop. Here are all the features that come in Photoshop or Photoshop Elements. 1. Select items with the Magic Wand tool Also called the Selections tool, Magic Wand is the most important tool in Photoshop and Photoshop Elements and is the default tool in the toolbox. You can use it to select rectangular, circular, elliptical, free-form polygonal, irregular, and so on. The Magic Wand tool is also the fastest tool in Photoshop and Photoshop Elements. It creates a selection quickly with no brushes or eraser tools. Magic Wand Tools in Photoshop: Open Create Delete Sketch Freeform Smart Move Refine Edge Ruler Square Weights 2. Select objects with the Magic Wand The main use of the Magic Wand tool is to select objects in a photo. You can select any type of object and the tool will select items inside it.

For example, you can select a car, a building, or a dog. In this example, the vehicle has been selected by using the Magic Wand tool. Tip: To select a specific object, you have to click on it. 3. Isolate objects with the Magic Wand tool To select only a part of an object, use the Magic Wand tool to select the part and then press and hold Alt to mask the object from selection. You can also use this tool to select only part of an object. Selecting a part of an object will usually mean that the entire object will be deleted. Also, to completely delete an object use Edit > Select > Inverse Magic Wand Tools in Photoshop: 5. Copy and paste It is faster to use the Copy and Paste tool to move and copy items than to use the Object command. You can copy a selection to another selection with the Copy tool. You can copy multiple selections with the Shift-Click option. The Paste option copies a selection to the top most or bottom most layers. Add a layer mask to the copied item or paste it below the item. Using multiple layers with this method will take a long time because of the stacking order. 388ed7b0c7

Sphenoidal invasion is prognostic in craniopharyngioma. This study aimed to characterize the factors affecting the outcomes of craniopharyngioma patients treated with adjuvant irradiation. A retrospective review of 23 patients with radiologically proven craniopharyngioma treated at our institution between 2000 and 2008 was performed. Sphenoid sinus invasion was examined to determine whether its presence was associated with adverse outcomes. The median follow-up was 5.4 years. The median and 5-year progression-free survival (PFS) and overall survival (OS) rates were 6.6 years (95% CI, 3.1-10.1 years), 46.1% (95% CI, 29.9-62.3%), and 8.5 years (95% CI, 1.2-15.7 years), respectively. Univariate analysis showed that age >50 years, WHO grade  $\geq 3$ , distant metastasis, and sphenoid sinus invasion were significantly related to shorter PFS and OS. Multivariate analysis revealed that age >50 years, and sphenoid sinus invasion were significantly associated with worse PFS. Sphenoid sinus invasion was a significant predictor of death and recurrence. Both age and sphenoid sinus invasion were independent predictors of worse PFS.

Defs.' Opp'n at 13 n.13, ECF No. 19. The Court need not resolve this dispute because, even assuming the plaintiffs' assertions to be correct, they fall far short of establishing that their own circumstances during that period were sufficiently distinct from those of the class as a whole to make application of the more lenient standard appropriate. 7 plaintiffs allege that the defendants' conduct caused them to be affected by the national unemployment rate, they have failed to allege that the defendants' conduct was responsible for that increase. Second, the plaintiffs must demonstrate that their circumstances were sufficiently different from the circumstances of the class as a
